RELATIONSHIPS BUILT ON TRUST

We understand the strategic and operational challenges that domestic original equipment manufacturers face, as well as the importance of manufacturing to a robust economy. We know the key players in this arena, and are able to fill the search pipeline efficiently to locate qualified personnel. DHG Search connects you with experienced professionals succeeding in their current positions — people who trust us and will listen when we call them to talk about a job opportunity.

We've created a confidential space for conversations between manufacturers that are hiring and high-quality candidates, each selected by a strategic recruiting process shaped by experience, analytics and intuition.

This process, like the relationships it runs on, is well-established and effective. Clients who work with us and have the discipline to use our process see that it pays off with quality hires — professionals who are smart and engaged, can execute on key tasks and become an integral part of the business.

STRATEGIC ADVISORS

Our relationships start with an executive recruiting engagement, which leads to clients trusting us as strategic advisors. We know their organizational charts, identify duplication and redundancy and help define the position requirements and the ideal candidate.

We have experience in providing candidate search assistance related to:

- Expansion
- Downsizing
- Under-performance
- Open positions
- Succession planning
- Unmet internal needs

HOW ENGAGEMENTS BECOME RELATIONSHIPS

We value relationships over individual placements. Our diligence drives our understanding of your needs and those of the best candidates for your available positions. DHG Search represents the business, but we know this has to be a win for both sides.

Over time, our clients see that we add value, with a 360-degree view of the marketplace, a selection process that moves forward without wasted movement and recommendations to support the right hiring decision.
